BUSINESS WINS TENDER TO DEVELOP BUDDING ENTREPRENEURS

Mansfield based education experts no limits has beaten stiff competition to win a tender worth £130,000 to develop the Enterprise Academy for Ashfield, Bolsover and Mansfield partnership, 'The Alliance for Enterprise.'

The Enterprise Academy will act as a single point of contact for local schools within these three districts. One of its key tasks will be to build solid working relationships between secondary schools and local businesses to help raise aspirations and encourage students to become more entrepreneurial in their outlook. It will also provide curriculum resources, pupil workshops, staff training and consultancy.

Beverley Burton, no limits' founder, said: "We are delighted to be part of this initiative. There is great entrepreneurial spirit within this community and this is a fantastic opportunity to use our collective vision and talent for the benefit of the local area."

Work starts immediately and continues until March 2009.

The Alliance for Enterprise – the Ashfield, Mansfield and Bolsover District Council partnership - obtained funding under the Local Enterprise Growth Initiative (LEGI). The LEGI aims to increase entrepreneurial activity, encourage wider investment and support the growth of local ideas through enterprise development.

Editor's note: no limits is spelt in lower case only.
